Dear Students,

Welcome to the study of the 1700s! If you are holding this book in your hands, you are one of the few. Not many young people get to learn about these very important events and principles of America. Your knowledge will help preserve those principles, as you apply them every day.

This activity book about the 1700s will be fun to do. You will be drawing, coloring, writing, and learning about the foundation of America – it's history, its freedom, and its future. You will want to do your very best work in this book. Your care will show your love for our country and its heritage.

Here are some of the things you will learn:

- How to use and search the scriptures – that's history too!
- Lessons on manners that were required by every young person, and which will also help refine you in your relationship with others.
- The history and importance of the American flag, and creating your own family flag.
- The miracles of how God led Christopher Columbus to America.
- The fantastic true story of the First Thanksgiving
- The basis of America's prosperity – Freedom of Religion
    - Religion of the Jews
    - Religion of the Muslims
    - Religion of the Christians
- The lives of three of our Founding Fathers and their influence today

You will enjoy the activities associated with each of these subjects. Even though there are contentions in our country today, our original foundation is something we can solidly stand on, for our Constitution was designed and inspired by our Creator to give FREEDOM TO ALL.

Your studies of the 1700s will continue in "The 5,000 Year Leap for Families" activity book, available on Amazon.

So let's get started!
